

George Boskou is Associate Professor in Food Service Organization and Management, at the Department of Nutrition & Dietetics, School of Health Sciences & Education of Harokopio University Athens. He studied Chemistry at the Faculty of Sciences of Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. He has a postgraduate degree in Food Science and Nutrition from Ghent University, Belgium, and a PhD in Applied Biological Sciences from the same university. His research and educational work focuses on food safety, total quality management, food legislation, food services, new product development, gastronomy and culinology.